--o0o--

1 information about Actiq and Fentora to the media;
2 correct?

3 A. That's correct.

4 Q. And sometimes you would be involved
5 in what types of messages you would give the media
6 about these products; correct?

7 A. That's correct.

8 Q. And, for example, sometimes you would 9 be involved with giving the media messages about
10 Actiq and Fentora related to what types of products
11 they are; correct?

12 A. That's correct.

13 Q. And sometimes you would give the
14 media information about Actiq and Fentora about what
15 they could be used for; correct?

16 A. That is correct.

17 Q. And when we say "media," we're not
18 talking only about television, for example, radio,
19 for example, but we're also talking about the print
20 media?

21 A. That's correct.

22 Q. So, for example, the Wall Street
23 Journal or other AP types of newspapers, for example;
24 correct?

25 A. That's correct.

1 Q. So a lot of your job, it looked like,
2 or a big part of your job, included messaging with
3 the media about these two narcotic opioid drugs;
4 correct?

5 A. That's a portion of my job.

6 MR. JAMES: Misstates her testimony.

7 BY MR. CARTMELL:

8 Q. You can restate your answer, please.

9 A. It was a portion of my job.

10 Q. Now, the other things, it looks like
11 from your documents, that you were involved with and
12 you mentioned on your LinkedIn page is that you
13 partnered with industry groups, patient groups,
14 professional societies and key opinion leaders;
15 correct?

16 A. That's correct.

17 Q. What do you mean when you partnered
18 with those groups? What do you mean by that?

19 A. We developed -- we spoke about
20 breakthrough pain, what breakthrough pain was. There
21 was lack of awareness of the condition. So both 22 breakthrough pain, breakthrough cancer pain, and
23 what -- what the needs of those patient populations
24 were.

25 Q. When you say you partnered with

1 industry groups, give the jury some idea of what an
2 industry group in the pain community might be.

3 A. The primary industry group was a
4 coalition called the Pain Care Coalition. It
5 involved industry groups, patient advocacy
6 organizations, and professional societies.

7 Q. So would that pain coalition, as you
8 called it, involve multiple pharmaceutical companies
9 in the industry?

10 A. That's correct.

11 Q. And so sometimes you would work with 12 those industry groups on the messaging that would be 13 given about, for example, opioids in general?

14 A. That's not correct.

15 Q. Let me ask you this, then. Would you
16 sometimes be involved with that coalition related to,
17 for example, as you mentioned, breakthrough pain and
18 the messaging related to breakthrough pain?

19 A. To increase the understanding of 20 breakthrough pain, yes.

21 Q. And then you also mentioned that part
22 of your job in public relations, and as it related to 23 these opioid narcotics, had to do with your 24 partnering with patient groups; right?

25 A. That's correct.

1 Q. Now, one of the things, I think, that
2 you would do is actually from time to time be
3 involved with providing some type of pamphlets or 4 brochures, or things like that, actually to patients?

5 A. That's not correct.

6 Q. Okay. Let me re-ask it. Actually,
7 strike that.

8 When you would partner with patient groups
9 about these opioid narcotic medications, what would
10 you do typically? Tell the jury.

11 MR. JAMES: Misstates her testimony.

12 THE WITNESS: Can you clarify that question,
13 please?

14 BY MR. CARTMELL:

15 Q. One of the things you would do during
16 your time at Cephalon and during the time that you
17 were in the Public Relations Department working with 18 Fentora and Actiq, the opioid narcotics, was you
19 would work with patient groups, for example; is that 20 true?

21 A. That's true.

22 Q. Give the jury an example of what you
23 mean when you say "a patient group."

24 A. A patient group are organizations
25 that represent the interests of people with a

1 C2 opioid.

2 MR. CARTMELL: I'm going to object and move
3 to strike that. That's not my question.

4 Q. It's apparent from reviewing this
5 document, this Risk Management Program, that the FDA
6 required of Cephalon -- that the FDA was concerned
7 about the risks of abuse or misuse and diversion and
8 addiction related to Actiq; correct?

9 MR. JAMES: Objection.

10 THE WITNESS: Yes, they were concerned. But
11 the reason they were concerned was because it was a
12 C2 opioid.

13 BY MR. CARTMELL:

14 Q. Okay. And it's true, from looking at 15 this document, that the FDA was requiring Cephalon,
16 your company, to make sure that it was sending the 17 appropriate messages to doctors, physicians, and 18 pharmacists about the safety of this product;
19 correct?

20 MR. JAMES: Objection.

21 THE WITNESS: Yes. And we did.

22 BY MR. CARTMELL:

23 Q. And it's true, is it not, from this
24 Risk Management Program, that the FDA required --
25 that one of those messages that was required of

1 Cephalon to be sent to these physicians, patients,
2 and pharmacists was that Actiq should be used solely
3 by cancer patients with breakthrough pain and who are
4 opioid tolerant; correct?

5 MR. JAMES: Objection.

6 THE WITNESS: Those are the messages that
7 were required and that were given.

8 BY MR. CARTMELL:

9 Q. Okay. We will talk about whether or
10 not they were given. Okay?

11 Now, is it true that you were involved in
12 some of these vehicles that this Risk Management
13 Program is talking about, as far as delivering 14 messages?

15 A. I was not responsible for delivering 16 messages directly to health-care providers who were 17 prescribers or dispensing of the medication.

18 Q. What about delivering --

19 A. In that context.

20 Q. I'm sorry.

21 What about delivering messages to patient
22 groups or industry groups or professional societies,
23 were you involved in --

24 A. Yes.

25 Q. -- delivering those messages?

1 You were; correct?

2 A. I was involved in giving those
3 messages as they related to management of 4 breakthrough cancer pain and breakthrough pain.

5 Q. And would you agree with me that it
6 was Cephalon's obligation to provide information
7 through the groups that were listed that was
8 consistent with the goals of the Risk Management
9 Program?

10 MR. JAMES: Objection.

11 THE WITNESS: What groups -- to which --
12 what groups are you referring to? What section are 13 you --

14 BY MR. CARTMELL:

15 Q. You will recall that the Risk
16 Management Program we just went through talked about 17 giving messages to physicians and pharmacists and 18 patients; correct?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. And in certain circumstances giving
21 these messages to professional societies, for 22 example; correct?

23 A. In certain circumstances, yes.

24 Q. And would you agree with me that it
25 was Cephalon's obligation to provide those messages

1 to those groups that were consistent with the goals
2 of the Risk Management Program?

3 MR. JAMES: Objection.

4 THE WITNESS: Yes.

5 (Exhibit No. 8 was marked.)

6 MR. CARTMELL: I'm handing you what's been
7 marked as Exhibit 8.

8 Q. Ms. Beckhardt, we just looked at the 9 Risk Management Program for Actiq. And I will
10 represent to you that this is the Risk Management
11 Program, sometimes referred to as the RiskMAP, for 12 Cephalon's other opioid narcotic, Fentora.

13 Do you see that?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. And, again, I take it that this is 16 another Risk Management Program that you became
17 familiar with during your time working at Cephalon;
18 is that fair?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. And you needed to become familiar
21 with the Risk Management Program because of your 22 involvement with providing messages related to
23 Fentora; correct?

24 A. Messages related to the approval of 25 the product and its usage and data related to it to

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. A couple paragraphs down it says:

3 (Reading) The FDA approved Actiq for
4 use only in opioid-tolerant cancer
5 patients. Between 2001 and 2006,
6 Cephalon allegedly promoted the drugs
7 for noncancer patients to use for such
8 maladies as migraine, sickle cell pain
9 crises, injuries and in anticipation
10 of changing wound dressings or 11 radiation therapy. Cephalon also
12 promoted Actiq for use with patients
13 who were not opioid-tolerant (end of 14 reading).

15 Do you see that?

16 A. I see what it says, yes.

17 Q. And we just looked at the marketing
18 plans and strategy and tactics that the company was 19 using in 2002 and 2003. And some of the things in 20 those plans are included here, including sickle cell
21 therapy strategy to expand into that use; correct?

22 A. That is correct.

23 Q. Do you know whether or not, in fact,
24 this was -- that strategy of off-label marketing was 25 actually engaged in from 2001 to 2006, or was that

1 something that if it was, you didn't know about?

2 MR. JAMES: Objection.

3 THE WITNESS: I was aware there was
4 increased usage of our product in other -- other than 5 cancer.

6 BY MR. CARTMELL:

7 Q. Okay. Did you at the time suspect
8 that part of that large increase in off-label usage
9 may be the result of the sales team or the marketing
10 strategy put in place?

11 MR. JAMES: Objection.

12 THE WITNESS: I had some suspicions, yes.

13 BY MR. CARTMELL:

14 Q. Did you talk to anybody about that,
15 any management, while you were there?

16 A. Yes.

17 Q. Who did you talk to about that?

18 A. My supervisor.

19 Q. Who was your supervisor at the time?

20 A. Cheryl Williams.

21 Q. And what were you told in response to 22 your concerns?

23 A. I don't recall. But she did not have 24 oversight over the marketing strategy in any shape or 25 form.

1 Q. Did you ever talk to Mr. Pyfer and
2 tell him that you had concerns that he was
3 instituting a strategy and tactics of off-label
4 promotion?

5 A. I don't recall.

6 Q. You may have, you just don't
7 remember?

8 A. I don't recall.

9 Q. In retrospect, now knowing that you
10 had suspicions and concerns about the off-label
11 promotion and marketing at the time at Cephalon, do
12 you wish you had done more to try to stop it?

13 MR. JAMES: Objection.

14 THE WITNESS: I don't know how to answer
15 that question. I don't know the answer.

16 BY MR. CARTMELL:

17 Q. Have you thought about that?

18 A. No, I have not thought about that.

19 Q. It states below:

20 (Reading) Cephalon undertook its
21 off-label promotional practices via a
22 variety of techniques, such as
23 training its sales force to disregard
24 restrictions of the FDA-approved label
25 and to promote the drugs for off-label

1 uses. For example, the Actiq label
2 stated that the drug was for
3 opioid-tolerant cancer patients with
4 breakthrough cancer pain, to be
5 prescribed by an oncologist or pain
6 specialist familiar with opioids.
7 Using the mantra, 'Pain is Pain,'
8 Cephalon instructed the Actiq sales
9 representatives to focus on physicians
10 other than oncologists, including
11 general practitioners, and to promote 12 this drug for many uses other than 13 breakthrough cancer pain (end of 14 reading).

15 Do you see that?

16 A. I see that.

17 Q. And is that part of the suspicion
18 that you had maybe going on with the sales team and 19 the marketing team?

20 A. I did not have any suspicion that we 21 were marketing to general practitioners.

22 Q. Okay. But other than that, that's 23 one element here?

24 A. That is correct.

25 Q. Other than that, you had suspicions
